KILTED ROCK AT THE (PLACE) WITH COYOTE RUN!

"Imagine Jethro Tull on Broadway and you start to get the picture."

- Sam McDonald, Music Editor, Daily Press, Norfolk, VA

Celtic powerhouse Coyote Run will bring their signature and highly literate Celtic Rock to the (place) on (date and time). Touring in support of their new CD, Between Wick and Flame, Coyote Run's theatrical performances have been igniting stages nationwide. This is a band that loves Celtic music - loves their audiences - and knows how to have a rollicking good time!

Given that their founder and lead singer has been a professor for many years, it is no surprise that this band has come to be known as "the thinking person's Celtic Rock band." Coyote Run headlines and performs in major Celtic festivals, concert halls, clubs and pubs throughout the United States, as well as tours of Ireland and Scotland.

"If the Red Hot Chili Peppers wore kilts...they might sound something like this band," says Mike Farragher of the Irish Voice. Gene Shay of Philadelphia's WXPB commented after hearing the band that they represented the "take no prisoners approach to Celtic music," and Art Ketchen of the magazine Celtic Beat, writes that "Listening to Coyote Run makes me think of a large... library, where every book you open gives you a view of something fascinating."

Their CDs, Ten Years Running: A Retrospective, Between Wick and Flame, A Kilted Christmas (DVD), Places, and Coyote Run Pleads the Fifth are currently available through their website (www.coyoterun.com) and through a variety of internet retailers including Amazon.com, the iTunes music store, and barnesandnoble.com. Other releases available through digital download only.

Coyote Run is David Doersch, Catherine Hauke, Doug Bischoff, Michael Kazalski and Paul Anderson. The band's webpage has photos, upcoming dates and bio information on the band members. You can find their websites at: www.coyoterun.com and facebook.com/coyoterunband.
